BRITAIN HAS MOBILIZED 600,000 REGULARS; ALLIES CLAIM VICTORY

RIGID CENSORSHIP IMPOSED IN AMERICA AS WELL AS IN EUROPE

OUTPOST ENGAGEMENTS ARE IN FAVOR OF ALLIES, SAYS WAR OFFICE OF BELGIUM

[Associated Press service by Federal Wireless.]

LONDON, England, August 11.—The London Times says today that Great Britain has already mobilized nearly 600,000 regulars, excluding the rapid preparations to call out the reserves in case of necessity.

The Exchange Telegraph says that the Germans and French are fighting at Longway, a fortified town of Meurthe-et-Melle department, France, known as the "Iron Gate of France."

Belgian Women Fight the Germans

PARIS, France, August 11.—Special dispatches to Paris newspapers today bring the story that women employees of the national arms factory at Herstal, just outside of Liege, fought fiercely against the German invaders. The women used firearms while the ammunition lasted and then barricaded the lower floor of the big factory and poured boiling water from the upper stories upon the German detachments sent to take possession of the factory. They are said to have disabled 2,000 of the Germans in this way.

The factory was not taken last Friday. The male employees were with the army and the defense was planned and conducted by the women.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., August 11.—Uncle Sam is now exercising a strict censorship over all communications that might give information of the movement of any vessel of a belligerent nation, military or merchantmen.

The censor has forbidden all wireless mention of belligerent warships or merchant vessels.

The censorship is extreme everywhere. Cable messages from France are 48 hours late owing to congestion, even after the great mass of messages has been censored and those that fall under the ban refused passage.

Continental cables by way of London must pass both the Continental and British censorship.

The report is reiterated that Prince William of Lippe and his son were among the 800 dead found on the field. The fort had the exact range on a bridge which the Germans attempted to cross and while the forces were on the bridge from end to end it was shattered by the Belgian gunners in the fort.

The total German loss is now officially placed at 2000 dead, 20,000 wounded and 9,700 prisoners.

MURRAY GIVEN REPLY AND IS NOW SATISFIED

Says He Has Made His Point That Hustace and Cohen Are Bolters

"I have made my point to the voters—that neither Mr. Hustace or Mr. Cohen played in good faith as Republicans two years ago, and I am satisfied."

This statement was made by Harry E. Murray, Republican candidate for mayor, this morning in discussing the reply of the Republican central committee of his letter asking what attitude the committee would take toward the candidacy of Hustace and Cohen.

The committee discussed Murray's letter last night and decided to send to Murray a letter explaining its position. The letter, signed by Chairman Andrews, in part is as follows:

"While it may be true that the gentlemen referred to in your communication both bolted the ticket at the last general election, the primary election law is quite clear in securing to a citizen and voter the right to have his name appear on the primary ballot as a candidate for nomination at the hands of the Republican party upon compliance with certain conditions."

"The names of the gentlemen referred to by you will not appear on the primary ballot as Republicans unless they have certified that they are members of our party; that they believe in our principles and policies; that, if elected, they will to the best of their ability, seek to carry out the provisions and pledges of our platform; and that they will abide by our rules and regulations. Nor will their names appear unless their adherence to our party is vouched for by at least fifteen members of our party."

"No matter what course Mr. Cohen or Mr. Hustace may have pursued in the past, I do not believe it to be within the province of any Republican committee to assert that the pledges now made by them, vouched for by good Republicans, are meaningless."

DRYDOCK DETAIL SETTLEMENT IS EXPECTED WITHIN NEXT FEW WEEKS

Contractors Will Furnish All Material—Structure to Cost Almost Twice as Much as Any Similar Work in the United States—Civil Engineer Harris Will Supervise Interests of Government During Erection of Plant

By C. S. ALBERT

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—An early decision on the final details of the Pearl Harbor dry dock contract, which will enable the contractors to proceed with the work, is expected from the navy department. For several days past the matter has been almost the sole subject of importance taken up by Rear-admiral Stanford, the head of the bureau yards and docks, who has had repeated and long conferences with ex-Governor Walter F. Frear, Walter F. Dillingham and Engineer Smith of the San Francisco Bridge Company. Today Admiral Stanford stated that he hoped that the final settlement of the matters under discussion would be completed and arrangements made for the work to go ahead within the next week. Secretary Daniels, however, to whom all these matters must go for final approval, places the final settlement as coming within the next month.

The Pearl Harbor dock, which will cost nearly twice the sum which has been paid for the construction of any similar work in the United States, is considered of the greatest importance by the entire navy and every branch of this service is deeply interested. The type of construction, which is a modification of the plan suggested by the late Alfred Noble, will be obtained through the sinking of hollow inverted arches of reinforced concrete, which

LOW RATES FOR VESSELS FLYING WARRING FLAGS

Harbor Board Makes Bid for Foreign Business—Meeting of This Morning

Vessels putting into this port flying the flag of one of the belligerent countries will be given special dockage rates. This decision was reached this morning at a meeting of the board of harbor commissioners when its attention was called to the situation of the German tramp steamer Setos, which put in here this week to remain in safety while the European war lasts.

A flat rate of $10 a day is to be made to such steamers, and when there are no more berths for them, the commission agreed that it would call on the naval authorities to allow the vessels to dock at the government's wharves.

Small shacks on the sea wall at the back of Pier 2 are likely to meet with summary treatment. A letter complaining of them was received by the commission this morning from Harbormaster William R. Foster. The letter reads:

"The land along the sea wall at the back of Pier 2 has gradually been filling up with small shacks, which are inhabited by a lot of Hawaiian fishermen and their families, who are living there in a state of filth, which is hard to imagine; and I feel that the condition existing there is a menace to the safety of the surrounding property and also to the health of the community."

"As the property belongs to the United States, I would suggest that the proper steps be taken to remove the nuisance as quickly as possible." It is understood that the matter will be taken up with the government authorities here.

The new rules of the commission relating to charges for pilotage and dockage may be amended because of point brought to the attention of the commission this morning through the report of Captain Ferdinand Mosher, pilot of Hilo.

Under the rules, a vessel that enters two ports in the territory with a pilot is entitled to a five per cent discount. In one case where Captain Mosher allowed such a discount, it was discovered a pilot had been used only in entering the ports.

The commissioners conceded that the discount had been properly made under the rules, but that an error had been made in them and that they should be amended so as to make the discount only permissible when a ship enters and leaves two territorial ports with a pilot.

JAPANESE KILLS WIFE, THEN SHOTS SELF; IS EXPECTED TO DIE

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

HILO, Aug. 10.—Nishimoto, a Japanese, shot and killed his wife early on Saturday morning, then turned the gun on himself, inflicting a wound from which he will probably die. The woman was shot through the lungs and died while on the way to the hospital. Nishimoto is still alive although he has but little chance of recovery.

The crime was committed in a rooming house on Richardson street and is said to be the result of jealousy. The man wanted his wife to proceed to Honolulu with him but she refused to do so. On the night of the murder the man returned home very late and, as soon as he entered his wife's room he is alleged to have pulled a revolver and fired three shots—two at his wife and one at himself.
